

Finally something is enacted like this to protect the public, and of course, now that it's effective, the government wants to deny this basic protection to it's citizens.

Every household benefits from this law. The only losers are the telemarketers, who do not make a slae on 99% of those they call anyway. Why should we all be inconvenienced just so they can continue to make a small sale occasionally???